for marketing of life science products in Japan

? Why do you need to set up your Japanese website on servers in Japan?

In this internet world, to gather visitors from worldwide, website have to be prepared in multi-language.

However, even if the multi-language website is designed on the server in your local country, it is a little bit tough to increase visitors from other countries.

The reason is simple - basically, search engine preferentially returns results which are on the server in your local area , as they think it is beneficial for the customers.

That is why, if you need to develop your Japanese website, the website have to be on the servers in Japan.
